4. President Biden is attempting to negotiate an agreement between Israel and Saudi Arabia in which Saudi Arabia agrees to normalize relations with Israel in exchange for:
 - 1) future talks on a Palestinian state existing alongside Israel,
 - 2) U.S. assistance with a Saudi civilian nuclear program, and
 - 3) a U.S. guarantee to militarily defend Saudi Arabia with U.S. troops, if attacked.Do you believe this deal is in U.S. interests?
 - a. Yes, it is in US interests
 - b. No, it is not in US interests
 - c. Not sure
5. People say many things about this potential agreement.

Some say that for the US to give Saudi Arabia a security guarantee, committing US troops to danger in the Middle East, especially after Saudi citizens' direct involvement with the 9/11 attacks, as well as their horrible human rights record, would be deeply wrong.

Others say the agreement is an important opportunity to spread US influence in the Middle East, stabilize the region, and outbid China.

Now after hearing these two opposing arguments, do you believe the agreement would be in U.S. interests?

- a. Yes, it is in US interests
- b. No, it is not in US interests
- c. Not sure
